High School.

At a meeting of the senior class last week it was decided, as announced at the weekly convocation, that the commencement exercises would be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 4th, 5th and 6th of June. This change of plan from that ordinarily followed is made in view of the fact that the board of education has been liberal in its treatment of the school. The seniors feel especially grateful to the board for making it possible for them to graduate this year, and take this way of expressing it. By this plan the work of the classes will go on as usual up to 2:30 on the last day, Friday,

Among the visitors the bast week were:

The classes in geometry are to have special verk before the eclipse of the sun, on the 28th of this month, is due. This will enable them to better understand the application of geometric principles to the accounts they will find in the papers and magazines before and after the eclipse. The class in trigonometry are also planning special work for the rest of the term, of which particulars will appear later.

On Monday morning the students will miss Mrs. Jennings' "Japanese Dragon" from the shadow box, and will find in its stead a painting of an eruption of Kilanea. The painting is kindly loaned by Mrs. C. P. Brooks.

Mrs. C. P. Brooks.

Mr. Clark's friends, both students and faculty, have read with regret that he is not to be the principal of the school next year. The past year has been a pleasant one in the school, and Principal Clark has done much to make it at the same time pleasant and profitable to all.

On Wednesday evening, Decoration day, the oratorical contest, unfer the auspices of the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, will be held. The contestants have been preparing for the occasion and the programme will doubtless he one of merit and interest be one of merit and interest.

secure the contest. Its stand in entering the Cedar City mon and refusing to withdraw them is well established by precedent in schools both east and west. The boys had conceded much to secure a meet at all, and they felt that they could not consistently concede more. The attitude of the papers in exaggerating the disturbance that did occur was vigorously condemned by all. There was no shrieking and fainting of women; not one umbrella was broken; no one received a colored eye; there was a struggling striking mass of humanity, but no one was hurt. The meeting also empowered the athletic committee to complete its arrangements with the University of Nevada for a contest in track athletics next Saturday, the day following the interstate debate. day following the interstate debate.

The third year class on Wednesday selected Delta Cole, Lou Lewis, Jane Pixton and Ivy Dix to prepare original stories for the class contest to be held soon. The successful one of these four will represent the Naughty Ones in their contest with the second year students.

The business committee of the Alumni association has issued its announcements for this year's banquet. These together with programmes of commencement week will be mailed to all Alumni at once.

Mary Clark has been compelled to withdraw from school on account of poor health. He will leave for the lower altitude of California at an early days. Students will miss him both as a classmate and as a pianist. The class in United States history is now studying the constitution of Utah. To facilitate this, Mr. Young has had 200 copies of the constitution printed, and is selling them to the students at cost—5 cents each.

The interstate debate between the universities of Utah and Nevada, will take place in the Salt Lake theatre next Friday night. The equilibrium of the university debaters was somewhat disturbed last week by the news that one of the members of the Nevada team is a young lady.

The interstate contest in track athletics next Saturday will include the following events: Hammer throw, putting the shot, high jump, broad jump, pole yault, fifty yard dash, 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, 449 yard runfi, one-half mile run, and an exhibition in hurdles.

Mr. Flenner, editor of the Boise Capital, did not lecture as was announced, but gave several recitations in different rooms of James Whitcomb Riley's poems. Miss Moetch is gaining quite a reputation as a singer. She sang at the last meeting of The Sorosis and at Professor Woodward's lecture. She is to sing at an entertainment at Ogden soon.

The resident Alumni are discussing the propriety of having the annual banquet in the evening, instead of following the custom of having it in the afternoon.

Mr. Dryden is becoming quite an expert with the camera. His new pictures for the forthcoming catalogue are an advance on anything previously furnished.

Miss Florence Foster, who has for several months taught in the Salt Lake City schools, and has been reappointed for next year, is at home for the summer.

Professor Close went to Provo on Friday to instruct the fruit growers about spraying.

Basket ball teams are practicing for match games.

There was recently published in a French scientific paper, Ciel et Terre of French scientific paper, Clei et Terre of Paris, an article on the Yeilowstone National park, in which the writer, who had lately visited the park, holds that the geysers are rapidly approaching extinction. The article has been widely copied throughout the United States and has gone a long way toward increasing the impression that the Yeilowstone wonderland, so far as regards the hot springs and geysers, is practically a thing of the past. Both in his premises and conclusions the author of this article is wholly astray, and it is a good example of how even a scientific observer may draw wrong conclusions if he fails to examine all sides of a question. A few examples will illustrate.

"Roaring mountain, which the author of the Ciel et Terre article did not hear roar, never has roared to any notable extent. Some enthusiastic explorer in past years happened by this hill when there was an excessive escape of steam, heard the loud, shrill sound which it caused and dignified the hill with the name of Roaring mountain. But it is doubtful if any one has ever heard it roar any more than it does now; certainly it is as active as it has been for fifteen or twenty years past.

From the beginning of the communication with the Nevada school, the university boys have been much pleased with the friendly frankness of the Nevada committee. The university boys are going to take the visiting teams to their own homes to care for them. This is done both to reduce the necessarily heavy expenses of the trip and also to increase the friendly feeling between the two schools.

Students and teachers of the university were pained to learn of the sudden death of Mr. Howard Herron, one of last year's normal graduates. While at the university, Mr. Herron distinguished himself as a student and a man of steriling worth. He was a leader in his class and beloved by student and teacher alike. Professor Stewart communicated to the bereaved family the sympathy of the faculty.

A protest has been filed against the appointment of Mrs. James McAlpine as guardian of the minor heirs in the estate of the late William English. The contest promises to be an interesting one. Mrs. McAlfine is the mother of the minor heirs, and applied for appointment as their guardian. The estate is valued at $8,000, and a number of the children have filed a protest, on the alleged ground that Mrs. McAlpine is unfitted to handle large sums of money, and that she has already ian of Estate.
